

How to Submit a Session to Silicon Valley Code Camp 2010

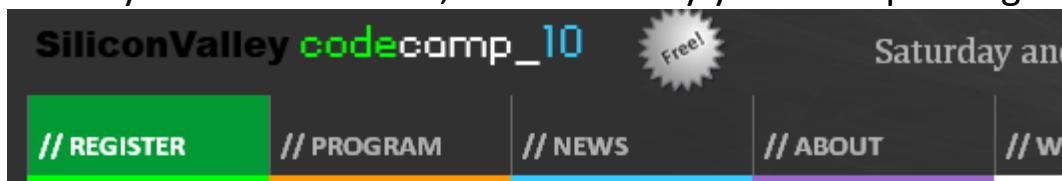

Go to the web site

www.siliconvalley-codecamp.com

Register

When you fill in the form, be sure to say you'll be speaking

Registering is easy and FREE!

In order to attend Silicon Valley Codecamp as an attendee or speaker, you must have the information below up to date. Just takes a minute. We promise!

Re

1 What day(s) are you attending?

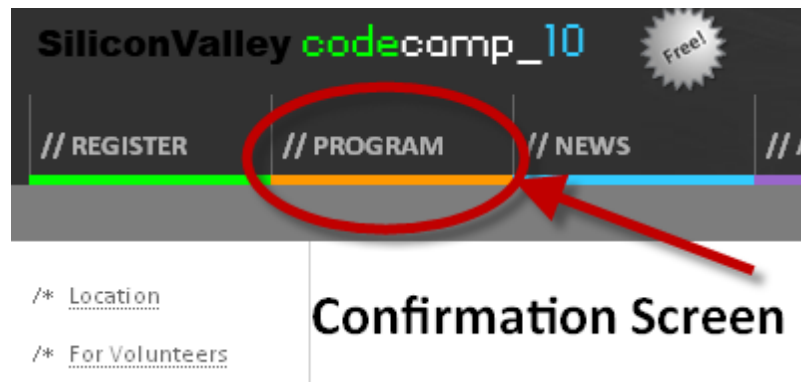

Saturday Sunday

2 Are you also speaking?

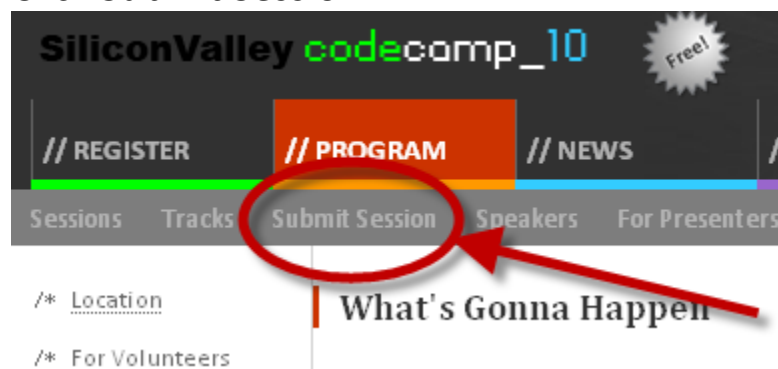

Yes ▾

* Note that we can not guarantee which day you will be assigned to speak on, regardless of your attending choices above (Upon return, only shows Yes if actually signed up for sessions).

Next select PROGRAM

Click Submit Session

Fill in your session description

Submit a New Session

Title:

Description:

Level:

Internet Access Required

Choose Up to 7 Categories Below as is appropriate for your talk. You may also add your own categories in the text box bel

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> extjs1	<input type="checkbox"/> Live	<input type="checkbox"/> Socket
<input type="checkbox"/> +37Wr	<input type="checkbox"/> F#	<input type="checkbox"/> Local Search	<input type="checkbox"/> Spring
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

Your session is displayed. You can change it by pressing Edit Session

Sessions

Sort by: Hide Descriptions

Creating the next Google
Fletcher Johnson
Agenda Not Made Yet | Room Unknown

Edit Session Email Speaker Delete Session

Beginner Wiki Here
Beginner

So you like to create the next Google. You have a great idea but want ideas about how to start a company, hire people (especially with no $$), maybe get funding, and become the next Google, preferably without having to sell your soul. This session will give an overview of things to consider so that your path to greatness is easier than it might be otherwise. It is likely that there will be a few speakers representing different aspects of starting a startup.